To Whom It May Concern

XXX is one of the most talented students to have attended Army Public School, Kolkata. I taught XXX English as a eleventh and twelfth grader. He has achieved exceptionally high grades in English throughout his high school years. He scored A1 in both Secondary and Higher Secondary Examination.

Shomrik's literary acumen is something which is unparalleled. XXX is a voracious reader; besides coursework he used to read a lot. We only have Julius Caesar in our curriculum. However, inspired by Shakespeare, XXX completed Hamlet, Macbeth, The Tempest, and Romeo and Juliet all by himself.

XXX has a flair for writing, which he has used to his advantage. As the Editor of the school magazine, he acquitted himself with credit. With his creative talents and innovative ideas, the magazine soared to great heights. He started 'Book of the Month' and 'Editors' Insight' columns for the magazine. I specifically remember one of his articles on Chinese Invasion of India. In that article, XXX analysed the loss of India and the gain of China. XXX pointed out that China, quite surprisingly, grew from strength to strength after the war; while India faltered to keep pace. One would be amazed to know that the article was written by a high school student.

It is my honour to recommend XXX without any reservation.

Sincerely,
